Description
I think the built-in help documentation for 4.4 could do with a good update.
My ideas:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Shorten the toc list, use a per page "Content" table?</li><li>• Remove all "How to do xyz" sections per page (This is my fault).</li><li>• Re-organise/merge some/all Help sections, e.g. "Introduction" - Overview, Features &amp; Basic requirements could be one page. Ditto for the "Getting started" section (except for Configuring Tvheadend).</li><li>• Have one page that simply explains how to use the web interface, including any gotchas &amp; tips, dialog examples etc. This could include a smaller version of the current EPG overview page?</li><li>• Remove all images &amp; just have the property lists &amp; their doc properties. Solely rely on the property docs?</li><li>• A basic Howto section. This could include things like, how to setup users, blocking addresses, adding bouquets etc.</li><li>• Make the wizard a lot smaller (text wise), use the Help button to open a doc on explaining the wizard setup instead.</li></ul>
Opinions / Additions folks?
